this book is the first systematic attempt to analyse the growth of mass higher education in a specifically british context while seeking to develop more theoretical perspectives on this transformation of elite university systems into open post secondary education systems it is divided into three main sections the first examines the evolution of british higher education and the development of universities and other institutions the second explores the political social and economic context within which mass systems are developing what are the links between post industrial society a post fordist economy and the mass university the third section discusses the links between massification and wider currents in intellectual and scientific culture this is the second edition of this reference guide for anyone involved with or interested in opportunities for overseas students to study in the united kingdom compiled from the latest data provided by state sector further and higher education institutions and accredited independent institutions this book gives detailed information about the education and training facilities available in the uk to overseas students this text provides an analytical account of the changes to quality assurance of uk universities and colleges from 1992 to 2003 this book examines the power relationships that organize and facilitate quality assurance in higher education it investigates power in terms of macro systems of accountability surveillance and regulation and uncovers the ways in which quality is experienced by academics and managers in higher education louise morley reveals some of the hidden transcripts behind quality assurance and poses significant questions what signs of quality in higher education are being performed and valued what losses gains fears and anxieties are activated by the procedures is the culture of excellence resulting in mediocrity quality and power in higher education covers a wide range of issues including the policy contexts new managerialism the costs of quality assurance collegiality peer review gender and equity implications occupational stress commodification and consumer values in higher education performance league tables benchmarking increasing workloads and the long term effects on the academy it draws upon morley s empirical work in the uk on international studies and on literature from sociology higher education studies organization studies and feminist theory it is important reading for students and scholars of higher education policy and practice and for university managers and policy makers is it possible to bring university research and student education into a more connected more symbiotic relationship if so can we develop programmes of study that enable faculty students and real world communities to connect in new ways in this accessible book dilly fung argues that it is not only possible but also potentially transformational to develop new forms of research based education presenting the connected curriculum framework already adopted by ucl she opens windows onto new initiatives related to for example research based education internationalisation the global classroom interdisciplinarity and public engagement a connected curriculum for higher education is however not just about developing engaging programmes of study drawing on the field of philosophical hermeneutics fung argues how the connected curriculum framework can help to create spaces for critical dialogue about educational values both within and across existing research groups teaching departments and learning communities drawing on vignettes of practice from around the world she argues that developing the synergies between research and education can empower faculty members and students from all backgrounds to contribute to the global common good the uk may be ranked as one of the best countries in the world to start a business but evidence from growing skills gaps and the decline in graduates entrepreneurial aspirations suggest that higher education may not be contributing as it should to the enterprise environment enterprising education in uk higher education brings together the challenges of embedding enterprise education in universities and colleges identifies current debates around their roles and explores research theory and practice to deliver roadmaps for innovative enterprise education this book provides solid and clear guidance to practitioners and academics who are starting their journey into enterprising education as well as those who are more experienced but understand that the traditional approaches limit the options of future graduates it collates the theory and practice of enterprise education in the uk higher education sector and business engagement with wider stakeholders drawing on theory and best practice and illustrated with a wide range of the examples and cases it will provide invaluable guidance to researchers educators practitioners and policy makers text and accompanying photographs present art theory practices and history from ancient egypt through the early twenty first century the marketisation of higher education is a growing worldwide trend increasingly market steering is replacing or supplementing government steering tuition fees are being introduced or increased usually at the expense of state grants to institutions grants for student support are being replaced or supplemented by loans commercial rankings and league tables to guide student choice are proliferating with institutions devoting increasing resources to marketing branding and customer service the uk is a particularly good example of this not only because it is a country where marketisation has arguably proceeded furthest but also because of the variations that exist as scotland wales and northern ireland increasingly diverge from england in everything for sale roger brown argues that the competitive regime that is now applicable to our higher education system was the logical and possibly inevitable outcome of a process that began with the introduction of full cost fees for overseas students in 1980 through chapters including markets and non markets the institutional pattern of provision the funding of research the funding of student education quality assurance the impact of marketisation efficiency diversity and equity he shows how the evaluation and funding of research the funding of student education quality assurance and the structure of the system have increasingly been organised on market or quasi market lines as well as helping to explain the evolution of british higher education over the past thirty years the book contains some important messages about the consequences of introducing or extending market competition in universities core activities of teaching and research this timely and comprehensive book is essential reading for all academics at university level and anyone involved in higher education policy a team of experienced university managers explores the strengths and weaknesses of the various elements and sectors of the uk higher education system this text examines the changing concept and nature of higher education provides a comprehensive analysis of uk higher education today and points to how it might develop in the early years of the 21st century higher education in the uk and the us converging university models in a global academic world compares current trends in two educational systems it focuses on ideologies structures economics marketisation access admittance and the student experience from an interdisciplinary perspective dated may 2016 print and web pdfs available at gov uk government publications isbn 9781474132862 universities have a crucial role in the modern world in england entrance to universities is by nation wide competition which means english universities have an exceptional influence on schools a striking theme of the book this important book first investigates the university as an institution and then tracks the individual on their journey to and through university in a university education david willetts presents a compelling case for the ongoing importance of the university both as one of the great institutions of modern society and as a transformational experience for the individual the book also makes illuminating comparisons with higher education in other countries especially the us and germany drawing on his experience as uk minister for universities and science from 2010 to 2014 the author offers a powerful account of the value of higher education and the case for more expansion he covers controversial issues in which he was involved from access for disadvantaged students to the introduction of 9 000 fees the final section addresses some of the big questions for the future such as the the relationship between universities and business especially in promoting innovation he argues that the two great contemporary trends of globalisation and technological innovation will both change the university significantly this is an authoritative account of english universities setting them for the first time in their new legal and regulatory framework over the past few decades higher education in the united kingdom has been transformed expanding to a mass bordering on universal system there are now almost 2 4 million higher education students in this position of relative strength we are left with two broad options to accept the status quo or to ask ourselves some difficult questions about what we really want higher education to achieve and what sacrifices we may have to make to get there the contributors to this collection reflect on different aspects of higher education policy and purpose around the key questions of what are universities for who are universities for how should the sector be organised publisher s website credit is intertwined with higher education around the world and this book introduces and analyses the long term effects that this connection brings structured in three parts the book is grounded in experience practitioner research and detailed policy analysis the greater availability of credit in higher education is closely tied to policies of widening access and this book addresses current issues including the consequences of brexit standards in higher education and the management of mobile student learning the contributors to this book explore the development and integration of credit within institutional policy outline the systems of student progression and achievement including methods of assessment and measurement examine the official account of credit widening access and curriculum in the uk analyse how credit can facilitate flexibility in curriculum design the book is relevant to anyone engaged in educational development academic policy and learner support the breadth of contributions from across the uk ensures the variation in policies is mapped and charts the implications for learners rarely does a text come along which tackles challenging technical aspects of higher education and presents them in an accessible and creative way maureen mclaughlin academic registrar northumbria university uk this is a scholarly and timely analysis of the development of systems for recognising academic credit within the context of widening access to higher education dr marie stowell director of quality and educational development university of worcester uk this book is required reading for anyone interested in the future of higher education in a rapidly changing world dr andy w smith quality assurance agency for higher education it is hard to find enough words of praise for this excellent collection of essays herman de leeuw executive director and founder groningen declaration network wayne turnbull was head of academic policy and is now a historian at liverpool john moores university uk harvey woolf was head of academic standards at the university of wolverhampton uk he is a founder member of the student assessment and classification working group nicholas barr is the main expert in the funding of higher education in britain and has been active both in commentating on the process and in its implementation this timely book is the first to address the role of credit in uk higher education it provides an overview and history of the development of credit in the uk he sector and highlights how credit can be a vehicle for widening access and student choice for curricular flexibility and mobility of learning forging closer links between university research and teaching has become an important way to enhance the quality of higher education across the world as student engagement takes centre stage in academic life how can academics and university leaders engage with their students to connect research and teaching more effectively in this highly accessible book the contributors show how students and academics can work in partnership to shape research based education featuring student perspectives it offers academics and university leaders practical suggestions and inspiring ideas on higher education pedagogy including principles of working with students as partners in higher education connecting students with real world outputs transcending disciplinary boundaries in student research activities connecting students with the workplace and innovative assessment and teaching practices written and edited in full collaboration with students and leading educator researchers from a wide spectrum of academic disciplines this book poses fundamental questions about learning and learning communities in contemporary higher education a research based investigation of the academic personal social and cultural experience of international students communication and learning across cultures will always be relevant and of great interest to the international students and all who work with them historical study of the university and higher education in the uk india and africa bibliography pp 525 to 540 research and teaching are the two main functions of higher education yet information and analysis is much sparser on research than on teaching this collection of original work is an attempt to redress the balance focusing on uk and us experience this book offers a comprehensive overview and critical analysis of the uk s policy on recruiting international students in a global context of international education policy it examines changes from new labour policies under tony blair s prime minister s initiative to the more recent coalition and conservative government policies in the international education strategy the research uses a text based approach to primary research adopting a critical framework developed by carol bacchi what is the problem represented to be the book argues that international student policy can be reduced to reasons for and against recruiting international students in doing so students are represented as ambassadors for the uk or tools in its public diplomacy consumers and generators of reputation means to get money and as migrants of questionable legitimacy these homogenizing representations have the potential to shape international education implicating academics as agents of policy and infringing on students self formation the book will be compelling reading for students and researchers in the fields of education and sociology as well as those interested in education policy making academic writing is emerging as a distinct
