multiregionalists who hold that modern humans developed from ancient ancestors in different parts of the world and his own out of Africa theory which maintains that humans emerged rapidly in one small part of Africa and then spread to replace all other humans within and outside the continent Stringer's new theory based on archeological and genetic evidence holds that distinct humans coexisted and competed across the African continent exchanging genes tools and behavioral strategies Stringer draws on analyses of old and new fossils from around the world DNA studies of Neanderthals using the full genome map and other species
