A Killing in the Sun 2014-09-23 when a nineteen year old member of a black muslim cult assassinated oakland newspaper editor chauncey bailey in 2007 the most shocking killing of a journalist in the united states in thirty years the question was why i just wanted to be a good soldier a strong soldier the killer told police a strong soldier for whom killing the messenger is a searing work of narrative nonfiction that explores one of the most blatant attacks on the first amendment and free speech in american history and the small black muslim cult that carried it out award winning investigative reporter thomas peele examines the black muslim movement from its founding in the early twentieth century by a con man who claimed to be god to the height of power of the movement's leading figure elijah muhammad to how the great grandson of texas slaves reinvented himself as a muslim leader in oakland and built the violent cult that the young gunman eventually joined peele delves into how charlatans exploited poor african americans with tales from a religion they falsely claimed was islam and the years of bloodshed that followed from a human sacrifice in detroit to police shootings of unarmed muslims to the horrible backlash of racism known as the zebra murders and finally to the brazen killing of chauncey bailey to stop him from publishing a newspaper story peele establishes direct lines between the violent black muslim organization run by yusuf bey in oakland and the evangelicalism of the early prophets and messengers of the nation of islam exposing the roots of the faith peele examines its forerunner the moorish science temple of america which in the 1920s and 30s preached to migrants from the south living in chicago and detroit ghettos that blacks were the world's master race tricked into slavery by white devils in spite of the fantastical claims and hatred at its core the nation of islam was able to build a following by appealing to the lack of identity common in slave descendants in oakland yusuf bey built a cult through a business called your black muslim bakery beating and raping dozens of women he claimed were his wives and fathering more than forty children yet bey remained a prominent fixture in the community and police looked the other way as his violent soldiers ruled the streets an enthralling narrative that combines a rich historical account with gritty urban reporting killing the messenger is a mesmerizing story of how swindlers and con men abused the tragedy of racism and created a radical religion of bloodshed and fear that culminated in a journalist's murder. Thomas Peele is a digital investigative reporter for the Bay Area News Group and the Chauncey Bailey Project. He is also a lecturer at the University of California Berkeley Graduate School of Journalism. His many honors include the Investigative Reporters and Editors Tom Renner Award for his reporting on organized crime and the McGill Medal for Journalistic Courage. He lives in Northern California.

Killing the Story 2020-08-18

The Killing: Uncommon Denominator 2014-04-29 a harrowing and unforgettable look at reporting in Mexico. One of the world's most dangerous countries to be a journalist in 2017, Mexico edged out Iraq and Syria as the deadliest country in the world in which to be a reporter. With at least fourteen journalists killed over the course of the year, the following year another ten journalists were murdered, joining the almost 150 reporters who have been killed since the mid-2000s in a wave of violence that has accompanied Mexico's war on drugs. In Killing the Story, award-winning journalist and filmmaker Témoris Grecko reveals how journalists are risking their lives to expose crime and corruption from the streets of Veracruz to the national television studios of Mexico City. Grecko writes about the heroic work of reporters at all levels, from the local self-trained journalist Moises Sanchez whose body was found dismembered by the side of a road after he reported on corruption by the state's governor to high-profile journalists such as Javier Valdez Cárdenas gunned down in the streets of Sinaloa and Carmen Aristegui battling the forces attempting to censor her in the vein of Charles Bowden's Murder City and Anna Politkovskaya's Russian diary. Killing the Story is a powerful memorial to the work of Grecko's lost colleagues, which shows a country riven by brutality, hypocrisy, and corruption, and sheds light on how those in power are bent on silencing those determined to reveal the truth and bring an end to corruption.

A Good Girl's Guide to Murder 2020-02-04 a true crime narrative nonfiction account of one of the youngest Americans ever convicted of murder and sentenced to death. An important, powerful book.

The Nazi Doctors 1988-04-12 winner of the Los Angeles Times Book Prize with a new preface by the author. In his most powerful and important book, renowned psychiatrist Robert Jay Lifton presents a brilliant analysis of the crucial role that German doctors played in the Nazi genocide. Now updated with a new preface, The Nazi Doctors remains the definitive work on the Nazi medical atrocities, a chilling exposé of the banality of evil at its epitome, and a sobering reminder of the darkest side of human nature.

Killing and Dying 2021-05-04 one of the most gifted graphic novelists of our time, Wired, Killing and Dying is a stunning showcase of the possibilities of the graphic novel medium and a wry exploration of loss, creative ambition, identity, and family dynamics. With this work, Adrian Tomine's shortcomings, scenes from an impending marriage, reaffirms his place not only as one of the most significant creators of contemporary comics but as one of the great voices of modern American literature. His gift for capturing emotion and intellect resonates here; the weight of love and its absence, the pride and disappointment of family, the anxiety and hopefulness of being alive in the twenty-first century. Amber Sweet shows the disastrous impact of mistaken identity in a hyper-connected world. A brief history of the art form known as horticulture details the invention and destruction of a vital new art form. In short comic strips translated from the Japanese, is a lush, full-color display of storytelling through still images. The title story, "Killing and Dying," centers on parenthood, mortality, and stand-up comedy. In six interconnected, darkly funny stories, Tomine forms a quietly moving portrait of contemporary life. Tomine is a master of the small gesture, equally deft at signaling emotion via a subtle change of expression or writing large across landscapes. Illustrated in full color, "Killing and Dying" is a fraught realist masterpiece.

The Killing Season 1998-03-28 a killing in the sun is a collection of speculative fiction from Africa. It draws from the rich oral culture of the author's childhood to tell a wide variety of stories. Some of the stories are set in a futuristic Africa where technology has transformed everyday life, and a dark force rules. Others are set in the present day with refugee aliens from outer space, ghosts haunting brides and grooms, evil scientists stalking villages, and greedy corporations creating apocalypses. There are murder mysteries, tales of reincarnation, and of the walking dead and alternative worlds. Whose themes any reader will identify with, this collection is deftly crafted, running along the thin boundary of speculative and literary genres.

Evil Serial Killers 2020-04-03 the FBI estimate that there are between 25 and 50 serial killers at large in the USA at any given time, but the truth is few people kill. We occasionally say we could kill someone, but that is usually hyperbole. Most of us can imagine what it might be like to be driven to a senseless act of violence in an unendurable situation. To kill once is one thing; to kill over and over again is quite another. What drives these people who kill and kill again? Are they evil, or are they mad? Serial killing is a worldwide phenomenon, and no two killers are alike. Each one comes with a grisly, though compelling tale that takes the reader to the darkest reaches of the human psyche.

ANATOMY OF A KILLING 2020 family secrets and murder converge in this captivating and suspenseful romance from New York Times bestselling author Linda Howard. Some secrets need to be told. Still reeling from her mother's recent death, Karen Whitlaw is stunned when she receives a package containing a mysterious notebook from her estranged father, whom she has barely seen since his return from the Vietnam War decades ago. Then a shocking phone call: Karen's father has been murdered on the gritty streets of New Orleans. Even if they lead to murder, for homicide detective Marc Chastain, something about the case of a murdered homeless man just doesn't add up. Especially after he meets the victim's daughter, far from the cold woman he expected, Karen Whitlaw is warm and passionate. She is also in serious danger: a string of accidents have shaken Karen to the core and forced her into the protective embrace of the charming detective. She vowed to resist; together, they unravel a disturbing story of politics, power, and murder, and face a killer who will stop at nothing to get his hands on her father's secrets.

Killing in War 2009-04-23 killing a person is in general among the most seriously wrongful forms of action, yet most of us accept that it can be permissible to kill people on a large scale in war. Does morality become more permissive in a state of war? Jeff McMahan argues that conditions in war make no difference to what morality permits, and the justifications for killing people are the same in war as they are in other contexts, such as individual self-defense. This view is radically at odds with the traditional theory of the just war and has implications that challenge common-sense views. McMahan argues, for example, that it is wrong to fight in a war that is unjust because it lacks a just cause. The Killing Consensus 2015-03-21 we hold many assumptions about police work—that it is the responsibility of the state or that police officers are given the right to kill in the name of public safety or self-defense. But in The Killing Consensus, Graham Denyer Willis shows how in São Paulo, Brazil, killing and the arbitration of "normal" killing in the name of social order are actually conducted by two groups—the police and organized crime—both operating according to parallel logics of murder based on three years of ethnographic fieldwork. Willis's book traces how homicide detectives categorize two types of killing: the first, resulting from "resistance" to police arrest, which is often broadly defined, and the second, at the hands of a crime family known as the primeiro comando da capital. PCC death at the hands of police happens regularly, while the PCC's centralized control and strict moral code among criminals has also routinized killing, ironically making the city feel safer for most residents in a fractured urban security environment where killing mirrors patterns of inequitable urbanization and historical exclusion along class, gender, and racial lines. Denyer Willis's research finds that the city's cyclical periods of peace and violence can best be understood through an unspoken but mutually observed consensus on the right to kill. This consensus hinges on common notions and street-level practices of who can die, where, how, and by whom, revealing an empirically distinct configuration of authority that Denyer Willis calls sovereignty by consensus.

Kill and Tell 2011-08-09 gaining unprecedented access to the LAPD, crime reporter Miles Corwin shadows two homicide detectives on the mean streets of South Central L.A. Pete Raz, Razanskas, and Marcella Winn were unlikely partners: one a crusty twenty-two-year veteran of the force, the other a street-smart woman from the hood. A graphic, uncensored look at real cops and real killers, The Killing Season is that rare combination of first-rate reportage and riveting storytelling that will leave you shaken, informed, and blasted awake.

When the Killing's Done 2012-03-01 the island of Anacapa off the coast of California is overrun with black rats, which are threatening the ancient population of ground-nesting birds. Alma Boyd, takesue of the National Park Service, is campaigning to exterminate them, once and for all. But her systematic plan is in danger of sabotage by two notorious environmental activists, Anise Reed and Dave Lajoy. But when Alma's sights turn to the infestation of non-native pigs on the island of Santa Cruz, where Anise was brought up by her rancher mother, the stakes are raised, and the debate threatens to boil over into something much more real.
