leduc having inaugurated a new era for all practical purposes the oil rich jurisdiction of alberta also remains a one party state not only has there been little opposition to a government that has been in power for over forty years but alberta ranks behind other provinces in terms of voter turnout while also boasting some of the lowest scores on a variety of social welfare indicators the contributors to alberta oil and the decline of democracy critically assess the political peculiarities of alberta and the impact of the government s relationship to the oil industry on the lives of the province s most vulnerable citizens they also examine the public policy environment and the entrenchment of neoliberal political ideology in the province in probing the relationship between oil dependency and democracy in the context of an industrialized nation alberta oil and the decline of democracy offers a crucial test of the oil inhibits democracy thesis that has hitherto been advanced in relation to oil producing countries in the global south if reliance on oil production appears to undermine democratic participation and governance in alberta then what does the alberta case suggest for the future of democracy in industrialized nations such as the united states and australia which are now in the process of exploiting their own substantial shale oil reserves the environmental consequences of oil production have for example been the subject of much attention little is likely to change however if citizens of oil rich countries cannot effectively intervene to influence government policy executive summary the national infrastructure advisory council niac set out to determine whether the right people are receiving the right intelligence information at the right time to support robust protection and resilience of the nation s critical infrastructure more than 200 interviews and extensive open source research uncovered a wealth of insights on this complex problem first there have been marked improvements in the sharing of intelligence information within the federal intelligence community and between the federal government and regions states and municipalities however this level of improvement has not been matched in the sharing of intelligence information between the federal government and private sector owners and operators of critical infrastructure despite some notable successes this bi directional sharing is still relatively immature leaving a large gap between current practices and an optimal system of effective public private intelligence information sharing we observe that trust is the essential glue to make this public private system work trust results when partner capabilities are understood and valued processes are tailored to leverage these capabilities and these processes are tested and proven valuable to all partners when breakdowns in information sharing occur it erodes trust and is counterproductive to risk management information sharing is perhaps the most important factor in the protection and resilience of critical infrastructure information on threats to infrastructure and their likely impact underlies nearly every security decision made by owners and operators including which assets to protect how to make operations more resilient how to plan for potential disasters when to ramp up to higher levels of security and how to respond in the immediate aftermath of a disaster we looked at intelligence information flowing from the federal government to critical infrastructure owners and operators as well as risk information flowing from critical infrastructure owners and operators to the government our study reveals the complex ways information is gathered analyzed packaged and shared among government and the owners and operators of critical infrastructures in tackling this complex subject we examined the different stages of the intelligence cycle including requirements generation information collection analysis and dissemination to gather a variety of perspectives we conducted extensive interviews with security directors chief executives subject matter experts and government executives and managers recognizing that distinct sector characteristics shape information sharing needs we conducted case studies of five sectors commercial facilities healthcare and public health energy oil and natural gas banking and finance and chemical while we found some information sharing approaches to be effective others were not as a result we adopted a capability maturity approach which acknowledges that different federal agencies have different abilities to share information effectively and we sought to build on what is working the model rules of professional conduct provides an up to date resource for information on legal ethics federal state and local courts in all jurisdictions look to the rules for guidance in solving lawyer malpractice cases disciplinary actions disqualification issues sanctions questions and much more in this volume black letter rules of professional conduct are followed by numbered comments that explain each rule s purpose and provide suggestions for its practical application the rules will help you identify proper conduct in a variety of given situations review those instances where discretionary action is possible and define the nature of the relationship between you and your clients colleagues and the courts contemporary practices of international peacebuilding and post conflict reconstruction are often unsatisfactory there is now a growing awareness of the significance of local governments and local communitites as an intergrated part of peacebuilding in order to improve quality and enhance precision of interventions in spite of this the local is rarely a key factor in peacebuilding hence everyday peace is hardly achieved the aim of this volume is threefold firstly it illuminates the substantial reasons for working with a more localised approach in politically volatile contexts secondly it consolidates a growing debate on the significance of the local in these contexts thirdly it problematizes the often too swiftly used concept the local and critically discuss to what extent it is at all feasible to integrate this into macro oriented and securitized contexts this is a unique volume tackling the local turn of peacebuilding in a comprehensive and critical way this book was published as a special issue of third world quarterly in the years since distressed mortgage backed securities sparked the 2008 economic crisis several nations have implemented austerity programs that aim to reduce their debt by stabilizing shaky financial institutions cathy davis contends that the british coalition government is actually using its austerity plan as a way to dismantle the welfare state and that housing remains at the heart of the matter explaining why mortgages and rental costs are rising even as people with low incomes receive substantially less help from the government she reveals the longstanding links between housing finance and broader social and political issues this report studies green growth trends challenges and opportunities in the city of kitakyushu japan this path breaking new textbook provides a broad overview of the core concepts actors and activities involved in building security and justice after conflict as well as challenges and lessons learned in this field drawing attention to the principles which guide or should guide this kind of work as well as using practical examples throughout the book covers a uniquely wide range of issues in peacebuilding from transitional justice and disarmament to security sector reform and human rights it concludes by considering both the regional and more far reaching impacts of conflict including such global phenomena as terrorism piracy and organised crime with a decade of experience working in post conflict zones for the un and other organisations and a further 10 years in academia and as a consultant for various international organisations the author s unparalleled expertise on the topic and her accessible writing style make this book the essential guide to postgraduate and upper level undergraduate courses on peace and conflict studies the text is also important supplemental reading for those studying war peace development security or ir in a wider context and for practitioners and policy makers in the field of peacebuilding one of the key principles for effective aid programmes is that recipient agencies exert high degrees of ownership over the agendas resources systems and outcomes of aid activities sovereign recipient states should lead the process of development yet despite this well recognised principle the realities of aid delivery mean that ownership is often compromised in practice aid ownership and development examines this inverse sovereignty hypothesis with regard to the states and territories of the pacific island region it provides an initial overview of different aid regimes over time maps aid flows in the region and analyses the concept of sovereignty drawing on a rich range of primary research by the authors and contributors it focuses on the agencies and individuals within the pacific islands who administer and apply aid projects and programmes there is indeed evidence for the inverse sovereignty effect particularly when island states and their small and stretched bureaucracies have to deal with complex and burdensome donor reporting requirements management systems consultative meetings and differing strategic priorities this book outlines important ways in which pacific agencies have proved adept not only at meeting these requirements but also asserting their own priorities and ways of operating it concludes that global agreements such as the paris declaration on aid effectiveness in 2005 and the recently launched sustainable development goals can be effective means for pacific agencies to both hold donors to account and also to recognise and exercise their own sovereignty this book conducts a detailed examination of the current form of the hong kong residential property regulatory system the 2013 residential properties firsthand sales ordinance cap 621 the author sheds light on how the new legislation promotes a number of values including information symmetry consumer protection the free market and business efficacy it provides a detailed account of how the regulatory mechanism has evolved over the past three decades to catch unconscionable sales tactics such as selective information and or misrepresentation of location size completion date and past transactions and monitor sales practices in order to protect the interests of stakeholders in this ever changing first hand residential property market this book breaks down this complicated subject matter by focusing a number of chapters each on a specific attribute of the residential property on sale it then examines the various channels through which the information is communicated to the prospective buyer and discusses misrepresentation of the key information in sales of residential properties as criminal liability the tension between consumer s rights on one hand and the pursuit of free market principles on the other is but one example of the conflicting values thoroughly discussed in the book others include superstition vs modernization and clarity vs flexibility aimed at those with an interest in consumer protection and transparency orientated legislation in commercialized real estate transactions this book seeks to provide an in depth discussion of the latest trends and directions of travel
