Decision Leadership 2022-04-19 a fresh research driven playbook for how successful leaders can maximize the potential of others when we think of leaders we often imagine lone inspirational figures lauded for their behaviors attributes and personal decisions and leadership books often reinforce that view however this approach ignores a leader's mission to empower others applying decades of behavioral science research don a moore and max h bazerman offer a passionate corrective to this view casting today's organizations as decision factories in which effective leaders are decision architects enabling those around them to make wise ethical choices consistent with their own interests and the organization's highest values as a result a leader's impact grows because it ripples out instead of relying on one individual to play the part of heroic figure filled with real life stories and examples of the structures incentives and systems that successful leaders have used this playbook equips each of us to facilitate wise decisions

Management. Decisions and Behavior 1972 an expert on the psychology of decision making at berkeley's haas school of business helps readers calibrate their confidence arguing that some confidence is good but overconfidence can hinder growth a surge of confidence can feel fantastic offering a rush of energy even a dazzling vision of the future it can give us courage and bolster our determination when facing adversity but if that self assurance leads us to pursue impossible goals it can waste time money and energy self help books and motivational speakers tell us that the more confident we are the better but this way of thinking can lead to enormous trouble decades of research demonstrates that we often have an over inflated sense of self and are rarely as good as we believe perfectly confident is the first book to bring together the best psychological and economic studies to explain exactly what confidence is when it can be helpful and when it can be destructive in our lives confidence is an attitude that takes into account both personal feelings and the facts don moore identifies the ways confidence behaves in real life and raises thought provoking questions how optimistic should you be about an uncertain future what justifies your confidence in something amorphous and subjective like your attractiveness or sense of humor moore reminds us that the key to success is to avoid being both over and under confident in this essential guide he shows how to become perfectly confident how to strive for and maintain the well calibrated adaptive confidence that can elevate all areas of our lives

Judgment in Managerial Decision Making, 8th Edition 2012-09-25 decision making is the process of selecting a possible course of action from all the available alternatives in almost all such problems the multiplicity of criteria for judging the alternatives is pervasive that is for many such problems the decision maker om wants to attain more than one objective or goal in selecting the course of action while satisfying the constraints dictated by environment processes and resources another characteristic of these problems is that the objectives are apparently non commensurable mathematically these problems can be represented as $1 \leq x_i \leq g_i$ where x_i is an n dimensional decision variable vector the problem consists of n decision variables m constraints and k objectives any or all of the functions may be nonlinear in literature this problem is often referred to as a vector maximum problem vmp traditionally there are two approaches for solving the vmp one of them is to optimize one of the objectives while appending the other objectives to a constraint set so that the optimal solution would satisfy these objectives at least up to a predetermined level the problem is given as $\max f_1, f_2, \dots, f_k$ subject to where f_t is any acceptable predetermined level for objective t the other approach is to optimize a super objective function created by multiplying each objective function with a suitable weight and then by adding them together

Social Decision Making 2009-06-24 a new eye opener on how we can make better decisions by the author of gut feelings in this age of big data we often trust that expert analysis whether it s about next year s stock market or a person s risk of getting cancer is accurate but as risk expert gerd gigerenzer reveals in his latest book risk savvy most of us including doctors lawyers and financial advisors often misunderstand statistics leaving us misinformed and vulnerable to exploitation yet there s hope in risk savvy gigerenzer gives us an essential guide to the science of good decision making showing how ordinary people can make better decisions for their money their health and their families here gigerenzer delivers the surprising conclusion that the best results often come from considering less information and listening to your gut
