for years the evangelical church and its members have debated whether the bible should be interpreted literally or symbolically in regards to the age of the earth in their groundbreaking new book in the beginning we misunderstood authors johnny v miller and john m soden say that all these arguments have missed the point rather what christians really need to know is how to interpret the bible in its original context exposing the fallacies of trying to make the biblical text fit a specific scientific presupposition miller and soden offer a new approach to interpreting genesis 1 that explores the creation account based on how the original audience would have understood its teaching first the authors present a clear explanation of the past and present issues in interpreting the first chapter of the bible second miller and soden break down the creation account according to its historical and cultural context by comparing and distinguishing both the egyptian and mesopotamian settings finally they explore common objections to help readers understand the significance that the creation account has for theology today christians need not look any further than genesis 1 to find clues to its meaning both irenic and bathed in scripture in the beginning we misunderstood will equip every believer to navigate the creation wars armed with biblically sound explanations springboard relationship issues with a simplicity and precision previously unknown amal ezulu zulu horizons first published in 1945 in the bantu later african treasury series by the university of the witwatersrand press was the second volume of poetry produced by the renowned zulu author b w vilakazi it was written during the ten years he spent living in johannesburg in exile from his birthplace kwazulu natal the poems in this collection represent a turning point in vilakazi s life they express yearnings for the beloved land animals and ancestral spirits of his rural home as well as expressions of deep disillusionment with the urban life he encountered in the city of gold and in particular the suffering of the black miners who brought this gold to the surface but never experienced the benefits of the wealth it produced for the mine owners vilakazi was deeply conscious of the subhuman system that held these miners in its grip and gave voice to their suffering in many of the poems in the collection in particular the now famous poem on the mine compounds renowned as the father of nguni literature vilakazi was both a traditional imbongi bard and a forward looking poet who could fuse western poetic forms with zulu izibongo praise poetry in these poems he assumes the role of the voice of the voiceless and gives poignant expression to the stoic endurance of those
