more likely to die before their first birthday more likely to be stunted and less likely to attend school than children in other countries with similar income despite the current price downturn extractives will remain an important part of sub saharan africa's growth story using resource rents wisely remains a long term challenge governments must choose how to allocate resource rents between spending investing in human or physical capital or investing in global financial assets the return to investing in physical and human capital will be high in countries where the capital stock is low moreover higher levels of human capital make investments in physical capital more productive which suggests that the optimal portfolio will involve investing in both human capital should be prioritized in many of sub saharan africa's resource rich countries because of the low starting point investing effectively in human capital is hard because it involves delivering services which means coordinating a large number of actors and activities three dimensions of governance are key institutions incentives and information decentralization and leveraging the private sector are entry points to reforming institutional structures revenues from natural resources can fund financial incentives to strengthen performance or demand producing information making it available and increasing social accountability helps citizens understand their rights and hold governments and providers accountable improving the quality of education and health services is central to improving human capital two additional areas are promising first early child development mother and newborn health and early child nutrition care and education improves outcomes in childhood and later on second cash transfers either conditional or unconditional reduce poverty increase household investments in child education nutrition and health and increase the investment in productive assets which foster further income times in their practice what to do when a client suffers intense emotional dysregulation during a session second in a series of publications from the institute of medicine s quality of health care in america project today s health care providers have more research findings and more technology available to them than ever before yet recent reports have raised serious doubts about the quality of health care in america crossing the quality chasm makes an urgent call for fundamental change to close the quality gap this book recommends a sweeping redesign of the american health care system and provides overarching principles for specific direction for policymakers health care leaders clinicians regulators purchasers and others in this comprehensive volume the committee offers a set of performance expectations for the 21st century health care system a set of 10 new rules to guide patient clinician relationships a suggested organizing framework to better align the incentives inherent in payment and accountability with improvements in quality key steps to promote evidence based practice and strengthen clinical information systems analyzing health care organizations as complex systems crossing the quality chasm also documents the causes of the quality gap identifies current practices that impede quality care and explores how systems approaches can be used to implement change presenting a neuroscientifically aware approach to art therapy art therapy and the neuroscience of relationships creativity and resiliency offers a comprehensive integration of art therapy and interpersonal neurobiology it showcases the art therapy relational neuroscience atr n theoretical and clinical approach and demonstrates how it can be used to help clients with autobiographical memory reflecting and creating touch and space meaning making emotions and dealing with long term stress and trauma the atr n approach first developed by noah hass cohen is comprised of six principles creative embodiment relational resonating expressive communicating adaptive responding transformative integrating and empathizing and compassion create the chapters in this book are organized around these create principles demonstrating the dynamic interplay of brain and bodily systems during art therapy each chapter begins with an overview of one create principle which is then richly illustrated with therapeutic artwork and intrapersonal reflections the subsequent discussion of the related relational neuroscience elucidates how the atr n work is grounded in research and evidence based theory the last section of each chapter which is devoted to clinical skills and applications integrates practices and approaches across all six of the create principles demonstrating how therapeutic art making can help people decipher the functional mystery of their relational nervous system enhance their emotive and cognitive abilities and increase the motivation to learn novel concepts and participate in a meaningful social discourse principles and techniques of trauma centered psychotherapy integrates cognitive behavioral psychodynamic and humanistic methods of trauma treatment into a psychotherapeutic context rather than presenting a unique form of intervention or technique the authors present methods that have been used successfully some of which are supported by evidence based research and some by broad clinical experience this is not a general text then but one focused on building competence and confidence in trauma centered interventions providing methods that should be readily and widely applicable to clinical practice the authors recognize that asking a client about the details of a traumatic event is an intimate act that calls upon the therapist to be both compassionate and dispassionate in the service of the client s well being accordingly the book functions as a guide instructing and supporting the clinician through this demanding and necessary work the book has many useful features the book stresses technique not theory and is appropriate for clinicians of any theoretical orientation including cognitive behavioral psychodynamic humanistic and sociocultural similarly the book will be useful to a range of clinicians from psychiatrists and psychologists to social workers marriage and family therapists and professional counselors dozens of detailed clinical case examples are included that illustrate what to say and what not to say in the wide variety of situations that clinicians are likely to encounter down to earth strategies are included for setting up the proper trauma centered frame for the therapeutic work conducting a detailed trauma history exploring the effects of the trauma on present day behavior and handling the inevitable disruptions in the therapeutic relationship valuable features include study questions which conclude each chapter and appendices which provide a template for a consent to treatment form a traumatic life events questionnaire and a clinical assessment interview in many long term therapies regardless of therapeutic orientation a moment comes when the clinician or client realizes it is time to engage in a detailed exploration of traumatic events principles and techniques of trauma centered psychotherapy is for that moment and its rich clinical transcripts and vast detailed techniques will equip the therapist to embark on that process confidently humanely and effectively the two volume apa handbook of trauma
