Dance Across the USA 2017-12-09 this book demonstrates a recording of the dawn appearing at thirty eight days in ten states in the united states the original twilight data is a webcam video that is available 24 7 in real time the webcams captured them at a resolution of 30 fps frames per second then we extracted them into an independent image for analysis we carried out the analysis using the saksono algorithm described in the book premature dawn the global twilight pattern from all the video data it turns out that the fajr appears when the sun is at an average depth of 8 70 this result is very far from the official stipulation currently in force in north america 150 the presentation and evidence for dawn s appearance and its analysis are done entirely in rich graphic information thus even ordinary people will be able to witness the undeniable presence of the fajr this result does not describe the appearance of dawn throughout the year in the united states because we only recorded the video data from may to july 2021 around the winter solstice the appearance of the fajr appears earlier for this reason this research continues we will also publish video data captured in europe and asia in the not too distant future
