we do language builds on the authors highly acclaimed first collaboration understanding english language variation in u s schools and examines the need to integrate linguistically informed teaching into the secondary english classroom this book meets three critical goals for preparing english educators to ensure the academic success of their students first the book helps educators acquire a greater knowledge of language variation so they may teach their students to analyze the social cultural and linguistic dimensions of the texts they read in class second the chapters provide specific information about language varieties that students bring with them to school so that educators can better assist students in developing literacy skills necessary for the common core state standards third the text empowers educators to build their linguistic awareness so they may more fully understand respect and meet the needs of culturally and linguistically diverse students we do language features concrete strategies models and vignettes as classroom materials developed by english educators for english educators it is essential reading for anyone interested in learning about the role that language plays in the experiences of students both in secondary and postsecondary environments full of advice and support for walking hand in hand with students imaginative ways of understanding the realities of language variation this book is pure joy for teachers and college counselors even more important is the guarantee that when these educators embrace the humanity and philosophy so touchingly illustrated by the authors the intrigue of thinking deeply about speaking writing and reading is sure to follow for students shirley brice heath margery bailey professor of english dramatic literature and professor of linguistics emerita stanford university we do language is an enabling tool for helping teachers and those who prepare to face perhaps better than we ever have the challenge of schooling in the english language arts for the 21st century from the foreword by jacqueline jones royster ivan allen chair in liberal arts and technology and dean ivan allen college of liberal arts georgia institute of technology long overdue and much needed african american english is here to stay and this book affirms and supports educators and african american students their language and their culture i can't thank the authors enough for writing this powerful thought provoking and critical analysis of language variation donna ford harvie branscomb distinguished professor of special education and teaching and learning peabody college of education vanderbilt university ann charity hudley is associate professor of education english linguistics and african american studies at the college of william mary in williamsburg virginia christine mallinson associate professor in the language literacy and culture program and affiliate associate professor in the gender and women's studies program at the university of maryland baltimore county umbc owners of human bodies celebrate them by pointing out various parts and mentioning their functions from hands for catching and throwing to the skin that bundles me in while the plantation accounts for 90% of slave ownership and experience in the americas its centrality to the common conceptions of slavery has arguably led to an oversimplified understanding of its multifarious forms and complex dynamics in the region the many faces of slavery explores non traditional forms of slavery that existed outside the plantation system to illustrate the pluralities of slave ownership and experiences in the americas from the 17th to the 19th century through a wide range of innovative and multidisciplinary approaches the book's chapters explore the existence of urban slave societies slave self hiring quasi free or nominal slaves domestic slave concubines slave vendors slave soldiers and sailors slave preachers slave overseers and many other types of societies with slaves moreover it documents unconventional forms of slave ownership like slave holding by poor whites women free blacks native americans jewish americans corporations and the state the many faces of slavery broadens the traditional conception of slavery by complicating our understanding of slave experience and ownership in slavery practising societies throughout atlantic history a six level programme for young learners which is developed on a scope and sequence that meets the requirements of english syllabuses for primary schools programme is designed to prepare pupils to succeed in international as well as school based exams it also contains your turn activities that provide focused practice the strangest and funniest travel guide you ll ever read the celebrated authors of perennial bestseller the 776 stupidest things ever said set the typical travel guide squarely on its head taking you from the airport to the hotel from sightseeing to dining out by using 100 percent real examples of fractured english as spoken and posted abroad feel like shopping we have no good things to sell shop sign lovina beach bali feeling sick are you haunted by the horrors do you run after your own nose japanese medical form wondering what to wear a sports jacket may be worn at dinner but no trousers in a french hotel brochure wondering where to eat grill a roast your clients open for lunch dinner and sunday brunch slogan of the hibiscus restaurant in the jakarta hilton international but don t take our word for it come for yourself and if that s too much to ask remember the sage advice from the sign at a taipei hotel if there is anything we can do to assist and help you please do not contact us this book engages with deictics pointing words like here there this that space it focuses on texts by donne shakespeare spenser and wroth in particular relating their forms of deixis to cultural and generic developments but it also suggests parallels with both iconic and neglected texts from a range of later historical periods see all the different places marco goes this volume explores the relationship between form and substance in the law of obligations it builds on the rich tradition of legal thought that deploys the concepts of form and substance to inform our understanding of the common law the essays in this collection offer multiple conceptions of form and substance and cover an array of private law subjects scholarly approaches and jurisdictions the collection makes it clear that the interplay between form and substance is a key element of the dynamism that characterises this area of the law this memoir is a delightfully humorous account of a suburban homemaker s foray into the old world in the wake of her husband s corporate transfer to belgium as a naive forty something suffering from wanderlust despite never having taken a flight longer than a twenty minute puddle hopper between syracuse and buffalo the author was suddenly confronted with the need of moving herself and all her family s worldly possessions to a little town in belgium she was ready for this or so she thought given her propensity to attract trouble lucy ricardo the author s great naivete leads her into many comic misadventures ranging from her attempt to smuggle thousands of dollars in pesetas through spanish customs for a friend introducing the mexican ambassador to a roomful of people by the wrong name a faux pas that haunts her to this day and finding her husband missing in london when she goes on a wild shopping spree her husband once said that everytime she walks out the door he wonders if hell ever see her again and good reason but there are poignant and heartrending moments as well such as never to be forgotten moment at luxembourg war memorial cemetery and the wrenching events that unfold at the infamous berlin wall when the author finally returns stateside at the end of her husbands assignment she was more savvy and wordly wise than when she came or was she even she is surprised by the answer to that question this book examines the role of scottish enlightenment ideas of belonging in the construction and circulation of white supremacist thought that sought to justify british imperial rule during the 18th century european imperial expansion radically increased population mobility through the forging of new trade routes war disease enslavement and displacement in this book onni gust argues this mass movement intersected with philosophical debates over what it meant to belong to a nation civilization and even humanity itself unhomey empire maps the consolidation of a scottish enlightenment discourse of home and exile through three inter related case studies and debates slavery and abolition in the caribbean scottish highland emigration to north america and raising white girls in colonial india playing out over poetry political pamphlets travel writing philosophy letters and diaries these debates offer a unique insight into the movement of ideas across a british imperial literary network using this rich cultural material gust argues that whiteness was central to 19th century liberal imperialism s understanding of belonging whilst emotional attachment and the perceived ability or inability to belong were key concepts in constructions of racial difference this beautifully illustrated book conveys the centrality of costume to live performance finding associations between contemporary practices and historical manifestations costume is explored in six thematic chapters examining the transformative ritual of costuming choruses as reflective of society the grotesque transgressive costume female sublime as emancipation costume as sculptural art in motion and the here and now as history viewing the material costume as a crucial aspect in the preparation presentation and reception of live performance the book brings together costumed performances through history these range from ancient greek modern experimental productions from medieval theatre to modernist dance from the fashion plays to contemporary shakespeare marking developments in both culture and performance revealing the relationship between dress the body and human existence and acknowledging a global as well as an anglo and eurocentric perspective this book shows costume s ability to cross both geographical and disciplinary borders through it we come to question the extent to which the material costume actually co authors the performance itself speaking of embodied historical states of being and never before imagined futures which come to life in the temporary space of the performance with a contribution by melissa trimingham university of kent uk landscape and infrastructure examines the relationships between landscape painting and landscape design from the seventeenth century to the present and contemporary infrastructure projects around the globe these seemingly disparate subjects are united by a shared concern for the pastoral milieu. Grounding a traditionally productive landscape by focusing an art historical lens on industrial productive systems and the effects of the industrial revolution on the pastoral landscape tradition we can gain a better understanding of how to weave new approaches to productive infrastructure systems such as power generation, water filtration and food production into our contemporary landscapes with rising demand for clean energy clean water and locally grown food this study offers a historical perspective on how such systems can be integrated into our suburban and urban areas vestigial elements of the pastoral tradition have long held aesthetic sway in our suburbs cities and national parks both in Britain and America now as new energy and water related projects encroach on these spaces remnants of the pastoral play a crucial role in convincing neighborhood residents municipal leaders and energy companies or water authorities of the benefits of a neighboring infrastructure this book investigates the history of that tradition and highlights advantages it brings as we re-imagine infrastructure in the twenty-first century during and immediately after the first world war there was a merging of Christian and nationalist traditions of martyrdom expressed in the design of war cemeteries and war memorials and the state funeral of the unknown warrior in 1920 John Wolfe explores the subsequent development of these traditions of sacred and secular martyrdom analysing the ways in which they operated sometimes in parallel sometimes merged together and sometimes in conflict with each other particular topics explored include the Protestant commemoration of Marian and missionary martyrs and the Roman Catholic campaign for the canonization of the saints and martyrs of England secular martyrdom is discussed in relation to military conflict especially the second world war and the Falklands in Ireland there was a particularly persistent merging of sacred and secular martyrdom in the wake of the Easter Rising of 1916 although by the time of the Northern Ireland troubles in the later twentieth century these traditions diverged in covering these themes the book also offers historical and comparative context for understanding present-day acts of martyrdom in the form of suicide attacks excerpt from Lessons in English vol 2 in a few particulars usage has changed in recent years wherever this was the case statements have been changed in the present book so as to accord with the best modern authority in the treatment of composition the series has been thoroughly revised and enlarged in accordance with the spirit and the method of a changed language curriculum in grammar the principal changes have been in the direction of simplification and abridgment it is in the teaching of composition that the greatest advances in elementary English instruction have been made in recent years consequently some portions of the earlier reed and kellogg have been eliminated a great deal of new material has been added the increasing use of literature both prose and poetry not only as models but as a means of stirring the imagination freeing tongue and pen is reflected in this revision the use of pictures the relation expression work to life the harmonizing of the book problems with the child's world are here emphasized it has not been forgotten however that every good text in this field must be in large measure a drill book much talking and much writing on subjects which occupy the pupil's mind to which he gives attention in his other studies or in which he can easily be led to take an interest have been provided about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
