understandable for preparation complete syllabus accommodated with all the recent changes based on recently updated syllabus latest solved papers include this is an excellent overview of theoretical sociology theoretical means that the book tries to understand society in a general sense the book has a historical perspective but it also deals with the issues as they stand today so the book is not just of historical interest thankfully there is nothing about sociology of gender religion crime or this and that in this book family offices manage and coordinate a family's combined wealth whilst preserving the family legacy and protecting family interests the families behind these family offices control a significant percentage of the gdp of developed economies with consequences for financial markets at the same time family offices act at the intersection of family and commerce which makes this particular form of organization appealing to the field of strategic management despite its practical and academic relevance the literature has hardly explored the concept of family offices as a result the primary objective of this book is to introduce the domain of family offices by exploring goals control and conflicts in the context of family offices this book contributes to consider this family influenced organization an essential constituent of management research and an ever more prominent actor in today's global financial markets research paper undergraduate from the year 2018 in the subject communications language moi university education course m ed language english abstract the purpose of this paper is to show that a common language is one of the most important features of a diverse community human communication is based on features that describe an event and capture emotions needs interests and fears language is used to resolve or escalate dispute opara 2016 asserted that people from different culture and social units perceive the world through the lens provided by their distinctive languages meaning that language provides a repertoire of words that name the categories into which the language users have divided their world in fact definitions of words are linguistically culturally and contextually bound words carry meanings that make sense to members of a shared social environment conflict resolution relies heavily on word choices here language is key to dispute resolution because it is the words human beings in the world use as an accelerator to harmonious living or existential war fronts there is an assumption in kenya that conflict is best resolved when people can speak in one nativity for instance the kikuyu when faced with conflict can best sort out the issue in their native language because of the semiotics of the conflict there is linguistic consistency where all the words used add value to the discourse the researcher posits that in a country like kenya where national conflicts build from local dialectics kiswahili can be the unifying factor and a conflict resolution tool kiswahili as a trade language in eastern africa does accommodate the diversity of culture and language use the paper explores the strengths of kiswahili language in intercultural conflict resolution and emphasizes the need to consider the uses of the language in national and transnational conflict resolution seminar paper from the year 2010 in the subject sociology individual groups society grade 1 0 university of auckland social science course reading paper language english abstract it is well known that the demands associated with paid work can be at conflict with required housework as well as the leisure aspect of family life the major demographical changes in the past few decades have seen this issue become increasingly wide spread not only has the number of women in the labour force seen an increase but also the number of dual earner couples in america increased from 35.9 in 1970 to nearly 60 in 2000 the proportion of single parent families more than doubled from 11.1 in 1970 to 24.3 in 2000 and the number of working single parents raised in the same period from 53.2 to 71 furthermore life expectancy has increased for example in the usa from 47.3 years in 1900 to 77.9 years in 2007 the consequence is that an increasing number of employees have to struggle with juggling a variety of roles like being a parent a student a spouse and caring for elderly parents if an individual is unable to adequately meet the demands of these different roles role conflicts and in particular work family role conflicts are the inevitable result the aim of this essay is therefore to explore the work family role conflict wfc area firstly the methods used to find the relevant literature will be presented afterwards the field of wfc issues will be introduced by examining definitions and a theoretical framework will be outlined a focus will be set on merton's theory of role conflict due to the fact that until now this theory has not been connected in any great detail with the wfc topic the question what is the explanatory power of merton's theory of role conflicts in regard to the topic wfc's will be answered after presenting his theory and connecting it with the wfc field afterwards a literature review reflects the major theory in the bidragydere bruce hoffman andrew silke john horgan gavin cameron leonard weinberg william eubank avishag gordon walter enders todd sandler louise richardson frederick schulze gaetano joe ilardi essay from the year 2017 in the subject psychology forensic psychology penal system grade nicht benotet ernst moritz arndt university of greifswald language english abstract early psychophysiological approaches were based on the assumption that anxiety in the situation of an examination discriminates between deceptive and truthful testimonies since then different procedures have been developed that aim at detecting deception the theoretical underpinnings of these procedures are diverse and differ in precision this paper will propose a framework for deception research based on established psychological theories this work begins with a brief review of the most important psychophysiological procedures used to detect memory and deception as well as their respective theoretical foundations then an attempt is made to build a conceptual framework for deception research based on established psychological theories in this endeavour the complex process of deception versus truthful memory based reporting will be broken down into the simpler mental processes that can be theoretically expected to be involved the theoretical assumptions on the mental processes behind lying will be linked to relevant neuropsychological and psychophysiological findings while taking into consideration the typical restraints given in the context of applied deception detection this book is one of the first to document the challenges and opportunities facing the hong kong police force following the reversion of political authority from the uk to china in 1997 thematically organized and oriented towards those issues of greatest concern to the public such as police accountability assaults on police police deployment surveillance powers and policing across borders it provides a detailed discussion of these and other contemporary issues the opening chapter sets the work within historical context while the final chapter provides a comparison of policing in hong kong with public security in the prc the book will be of value to students and researchers working in the area of comparative policing and comparative criminal justice as well as police professionals and policy makers this paper tests models of coercive social control that are theoretically grounded in general group conflict theory and specific minority threat hypotheses these theories assert that higher levels of minority presence and overall economic inequality will predict higher levels of social control even when other environmental factors including crime rates are held constant the use of pooled time series cross sectional data allows for the first longitudinal analysis of police homicides as a social control outcome which produces mixed findings on racial and economic threats as in previous research purely economic conflict predictions find little support while racial threat hypotheses are at least partially substantiated as part of this same analysis police homicides and police force size are compared based on their empirical and theoretical strengths as social control outcome variables this ultimately raises important challenges to the continued use of the police homicide variable in future conflict and minority threat research over the course of his distinguished career edward weinshel has been a moral and intellectual force in contemporary psychoanalysis and an outspoken opponent of current trends in and out of the field toward dehumanization and deindividualization commitment and compassion in psychoanalysis under the editorship of robert wallerstein brings together 14 of weinshel's major papers the six clinical papers reprinted in this collection address the kaleidoscope of common personality organizations and propensities which in their extreme variants motivate individuals to seek psychoanalytic assistance covering topics that include neurotic equivalents of necrophilia negation lying gaslighting brainwashing perceptual distortion during analysis and inconsolability these clinical expositions are supplemented by eight theoretical papers in which weinshel gives expression to the metapsychological paradigm of ego psychology as it existed in the 70s and 80s four of the papers from the early 70s cover the ego in health and normality the transference neurosis and various aspects of the training analysis the remaining four papers published between 1984 and 1992 chronicle weinshel's notion of resistance as the clinical unit of the psychoanalytic process his elucidation of specifically psychoanalytic change as it grows out of the psychoanalytic process and his affirmation of modern conflict theory in the face of theoretical pluralism carefully edited by robert wallerstein and including an introductory essay by leonard shengold commitment and compassion in psychoanalysis brings to contemporary debates the voice of a principled exemplar of the psychoanalytic calling balancing intellectual acuity with a profoundly caring temperament and augmenting respect for the psychoanalytic tradition with a flair for original ideas edward weinshel speaks to all who wrestle daily with the burdens challenges and healing promise of the impossible profession description of the this bison books edition this volume presents an innovative new analytical framework for understanding the dynamics of violent conflict and its impact on people and communities living in contexts of violence bringing together the findings of microcon an influential five year research programme funded by the european commission this book provides readers with the most current and comprehensive evidence available on violent conflict from a micro level perspective microcon was the largest programme on conflict analysis in europe from 2007 2011 and its policy outreach has helped to influence eu development policy and supported policy capacity in many conflict affected countries whilst traditional studies into conflict have been through an international regional lens with the state as the primary unit of analysis the micro level perspective offered by this volume places the individuals households groups and communities affected by conflict at the centre of analysis studying how people behave in groups and communities and how they interact with the formal and informal institutions that manage local tensions is crucial to understanding the conflict cycle these micro foundations therefore provide a more in depth analysis of the causes and consequences of violent conflict by challenging the ways we think about conflict this book bridges the gap in evidence allowing for more specific and accurate policy interventions for conflict resolution and development processes to help reduce poverty in the lives of those affected by conflict this volume is divided into four parts part i introduces the conceptual framework of microcon part ii focuses on individual and group motivations in conflict processes part iii highlights the micro level consequences of violent conflict the final section of this volume focuses on policy implications and future research agenda this book is about the law and order issue and the role social scientists have played in legitimating it as a problem of grave social consequences it is a study on rising crime rates and criminal behaviour within the limits of conventional social science with its advantages and disadvantages reading the inherited paper along with the contemporary essay provides a rare opportunity for a reader to experience the development of new ideas with their own integrity from the past akademische arbeit aus dem jahr 2012 im fachbereich soziologie allgemeines und grundlagen sprache deutsch abstract this paper examines different aspects of sociology and education conflict theory and stratification in the broadest perspective education refers to all efforts to impart knowledge and shape values hence it has essentially the same meaning as socialization however when sociologists speak of education they generally use a more specific meaning the deliberate process outside the family by which societies transmit knowledge values and norms to prepare young people for adult roles and to a lesser extent prepare adults for new roles this process acquires institutional status when these activities make instruction the central defining purpose are differentiated from other social realms and involve defined roles of teacher and learner schools exemplify this type of institutionalization the central insight of the sociology of education is that schools are socially embedded institutions that are crucially shaped by their social environment and crucially shape it the field encompasses both micro and macro sociological concerns in diverse subfields such as stratification economic development socialization and the family organizations culture and the sociology of knowledge to understand modern society it is essential to understand the role of education not only is education a primary agent of socialization and allocation modern societies have developed formidable ideologies that suggest that education should have this defining impact excerpt from a theory of conflict disputes not resolved by negotiation may lead to conflict this paper investigates the course and outcome of such conflict between two parties who respond with aggressive behavior to injury experienced at low levels but become submissive in response to sufficiently high levels of harm legal sanctions analyzed in terms of the marginal penalty associated with increased harm may affect the occurrence or outcome of conflict the paper finds however that a policy tradeoff exists between deterring the occurrence of conflict and limiting the harm in conflicts which do occur moreover the different effects of legal sanctions can be enhanced or viliated by other forms of sanction such as social sanctions and sanctions internalized by the individual party conflict behavior is also affected by the availability or prices of activities which serve as alternatives to conflict finally because equilibria at low levels of harm may be unstable under sore conditions the conflict can easily escalate in an arms race fashion to much greater levels of harm although applicable in a variety of dispute contexts the theory is developed more fully here in the context of disputes between individuals and then examined briefly in its application to the labor relations setting about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks com this fact professor guetzkow is much more a child of the depression to use his own term a complication of essays by scholars who took time and energy to pen their work in honor of harold guetzkow the chapters that follow represent a real contribution to the study of international relations and document the influence of harold guetzkow in catalyzing that study over the last thirty years this book presents the concept of unstaging war as a strategic response to the failure of the discourse and institutions of peace this failure is explained by exploring the changing character of conflict in current and emergent global circumstances such as asymmetrical conflicts insurgencies and terrorism fry argues that this pluralisation of war has broken the binary relation between war and peace conflict is no longer self evident and consequentially the changes in the conditions nature systems philosophies and technologies of war must be addressed through a deep understanding of contemporary war fry explains why peace fails as both idea and process before presenting unstaging war as a concept and nascent practice that acknowledges conflict as structurally present and so is not able to be dealt with by attempts to create peace against a backdrop of increasingly tense relations between global power blocs the beginnings of a new nuclear arms race and the ever increasing human and environmental impacts of climate change a more viable alternative to war is urgently needed unstaging war is not claimed as a solution but rather as an exploration of critical problems and an opening into the means of engaging with them origins we call this book on theoretical orientations and methodological strategies in family studies a sourcebook because it details the social and personal roots i e sources from which these orientations and strategies flow thus an appropriate way to preface this book is to talk first of its roots its beginnings in the mid 1980s there emerged in some quarters the sense that it was time for family studies to take stock of itself a goal was thus set to write a book that like janus would face both backward and forward a book that would give readers both a perspective on the past and a map for the future there were precedents for such a project the handbook of marriage and the family edited by harold christensen and published in 1964 the two contemporary theories about the family volumes edited by wesley burr reuben hill f ivan nye and ira reiss published in 1979 and the handbook of marriage and the family edited by marvin sussman and suzanne steinmetz then in production best selling book in english edition for ugc net sociology exam with objective type questions as per the latest syllabus given by the nta compare your performance with other students using smart answer sheets in edugorilla s ugc net sociology exam practice kit ugc net sociology exam preparation kit comes with 10 full length mock tests with the best quality content increase your chances of selection by 14x ugc net sociology exam prep kit comes with well structured and 100 detailed solutions for all the questions clear exam with good grades using thoroughly researched content by experts this book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 5th international conference on rough sets and current trends in computing rsctc 2006 held in kobe japan in november 2006 the 91 revised full papers presented together with five invited papers and two commemorative papers were carefully reviewed and selected from 332 submissions
